

Eloy Paez

Eloy Paez, M.S. is CEO of Infinity Behavioral Health Services, the behavioral health industry's leading revenue cycle management company. With over twenty years' experience in the industry, Eloy brings a unique, clinically-minded perspective to the revenue cycle management world. Eloy's core belief is that the best way to achieve strong financial success is to provide excellent clinical programming. As Infinity's CEO, Eloy develops and manages strategic relationships and drives internal growth and innovation. Critically, Eloy combines his years of experience as a clinician with his revenue cycle management expertise in order to guide Infinity's clients through the complex insurance reimbursement process.

As a clinician, Eloy was accustomed to the challenges insurance companies presented to providers seeking reimbursement for their services, and the impact that had on both providers and their patients. Eloy saw a need for behavioral health revenue cycle management companies that understood these challenges while never forgetting the importance of the clinical care at the center of this, and so in 2011 he founded Treatment Concepts. Treatment Concepts merged with Infinity, a company founded with the same mission, in 2013 to allow both companies to continue to grow and better serve their partners.

Eloy holds a B.A. in Organizational Leadership from Saint Thomas University and a M.S. in Counselor Education: Clinical Mental Health from Florida International University.
