

To the Editor:

Under New Jersey's strict gun laws, it is difficult if not impossible for the average person to exercise their Constitutional right to own firearms and ammunition for self-defense in the Garden State. So why has the New Jersey legislature just introduced 23 new bills further hindering citizen's from obtaining firearms and ammunition for self-defense? Our politicians need to stop blaming law abiding citizens for the acts of criminals and madmen, and start focusing on real issues, like school safety and keeping the mentally ill from having access to firearms.

Sincerely,
