Employee Engagement

Every leader struggles with the challenge of getting their team to work as hard as they do. They don't understand why they don't take initiative, work independently, or they just don't seem to care. This problem is referred to as employee disengagement. If this is how you feel, or you have a good team and you want to take them to the next level, join us on September 27 and hear from leadership expert Mike Goossen. He will discuss the key to getting the most out of your team and increasing employee engagement.

Featuring Mike Goossen, CPA

Mike Goossen is a Fresno native, graduate of Fresno State, a CPA and recent author. Mike was licensed as a CPA in 1986, has worked as the CFO, COO and CEO of the Central California Blood Center, executive sales person for Ortho Clinical Diagnostics, CFO at the Fresno Rescue Mission and financial and strategic consultant for small businesses and non-profits in the central valley. During the past 15 years, Mike has been working with organizations striving to become high performance organizations.
