

JENNIFER PINCK
PRESIDENT AND FOUNDER – PINCK & CO., INC.

Jennifer Pinck was one of the first women to break into the construction industry, working in the building trades in the late 1970s and as a construction superintendent for a major Boston construction firm in the 80s. She earned an MBA from Simmons Graduate School of Management in 1986, the same year she received an ABC Boston Building License – becoming the first woman in Massachusetts to do so. Jennifer was among the few women in leadership positions for the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority’s Boston Harbor Project – a $4 billion court-ordered sewage treatment plant, and the Big Dig – two of the country’s largest, most complex, and heavily scrutinized public works projects.

In 1998 she founded Pinck & Co., Inc. -- an independently-owned building industry consultant providing comprehensive project management services to owners and developers. The firm primarily focuses on providing multifamily housing, education, and health care clients with planning, design coordination, project management, and comprehensive real estate development consulting services.

Pinck & Co. has grown every year for the past 20 years, has managed more than $5 billion in construction value, and has won numerous awards -- including being named one of the fastest-growing private companies by Inc. magazine, earning a place on the Inc. 5000 list for 2016 and 2017. Since 2013, Pinck & Co. has also been recognized as one of the fastest-growing inner city businesses – a distinction given by the Initiative for a Competitive Inner City (ICIC). For the second year in a row, Pinck & Co. was named to the ICIC Inner City Hall of Fame, which honors firms that have received the award five times or more.
