36th Annual Job Shadow Day for Inglewood Area High School Students

HAWTHORNE – More than 90 students and faculty members from five Inglewood area high schools participated in the 36th annual Job Shadow Day, February 23, 2017, presented by the Inglewood /Airport Area Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) and City of Inglewood.

Inglewood City Councilman George Dotson welcomed the students who were gathered in the Inglewood Library Lecture Hall and encouraged them to get the most out of the opportunity they had to learn how businesses and other agencies operate and what the requirements are to qualify for employment in a variety of fields. The 10th through 12th grade students were from Animo Inglewood Charter, City Honors High School, Inglewood High School, Morningside High School, and St. Mary’s Academy.

Among the supporting businesses and agencies that hosted the students were Metro, Kaiser Medical Center, and various departments at Inglewood City Hall, Inglewood Police Department, Centinela Youth Services and the SBWIB.

“This day is all about you and your chance to see what career opportunities are around you,” stated SBWIB Executive Director Jan Vogel, during his welcoming remarks. “Don’t be afraid to ask questions from the professionals you are going to be with over the next few hours,” he said.
