Scott Thompson from the University of Victoria Presented with NACCU's 2014 New Professional Award

Phoenix, AZ – April 30, 2014 – Scott Thompson, Manager of Production and Technical Support for University Systems at the University of Victoria, received the 2014 NACCU New Professional Award during the 21st Annual NACCU Conference in Chicago on April 16, 2014. Whitney Bright from award sponsor U.S. Bank presented the award.

Scott Thompson is responsible for the group that supports the University's administrative applications and databases. He has worked at UVic for over 10 years in a variety of roles including help desk, developer, and project manager.

Beginning in 2012, Scott took the experience he gained while working on the University's legacy, in-house ID card system to support the requirements-gathering process for an RFP for a comprehensive One Card system for the campus. In 2013, he expanded his responsibilities to include overall management of the One Card project implementation, and to date has been successful in implementing a custom solution for unattended transit revalidation, and in planning the transition to the new system in May 2014.

Scott attended the NACCU Annual Conference for the first time in 2014, presented on UVic's implementation to date, and is looking forward to expanding his contributions to NACCU in the future.

NACCU congratulates Scott Thompson for being the recipient of the 2014 NACCU New Professional Award.
