Item 1: Testing and Certification of Tubular Daylighting Devices (TDD)

Recently, the NFRC Executive Committee has required the following regarding the testing and certification of TDD.

All TDD products, currently authorized for NFRC certification, shall have a test report with a date no earlier than January 1, 2011. For any product that is using a NFRC simulation rating or a physical thermal test report dated earlier than January 1, 2011 are required to have their products tested and recertified by January 1, 2013 for NFRC certification.

Any product that does not meet this recertification requirement by January 1, 2013, will be removed from the NFRC Certified Products Directory (CPD) and are not authorized for NFRC certification.
