Chairmen’s Statement

The recent Ebola outbreak brings home to us dramatically that frontline healthcare workers everywhere face risks, and sometimes there is confusion about how to minimize those risks. Yet minimize them we must if we are to provide as safe an environment as possible for our patients, our team members and ourselves.

Three decades ago the dental profession was also confronted by a new and frightening disease – HIV/AIDS. In that climate of confusion, it was obvious to a group of visionary leaders that there was a need for a dentistry-focused organization that could make sense of emerging guidelines and regulations, and provide practical science-based advice and education. Those leaders founded OSAP in 1984.

OSAP is clearly as relevant and essential today as it was 30 years ago, and it is our duty as leaders of OSAP to ensure that the organization continues to fulfill its promise to provide credible, timely and actionable support and education to those who need it, when they need it and how they need it.

The Boards of the Association and the Foundation are working hard this year to focus OSAP on providing tangible support and education to the person in the dental care facility with day-to-day responsibility for infection control and related clinical safety matters. We are also ensuring that OSAP has an appropriately funded-infrastructure to allow us to deliver on our promise.

We thank you for your support of OSAP’s critical mission to ensure that every dental visit is the Safest Dental Visit™.

John O’Keefe BDentSc MDentSc MBA, OSAP Chairman
 Don Marianos DDS MPH, OSAP Foundation Chairman

OSAP Timeline

Mission:

To be the world’s leading advocate for the safe and infection-free delivery of oral healthcare

Vision:

Safe oral healthcare for people everywhere

1981	CDC describes 5 cases of rare lung infection marking first official reporting of what will become known as the AIDS epidemic
1984	OSAP formed
1986	CDC publishes first comprehensive dental infection control guidelines
1990	First case report of HIV transmission from a HCW to a patient (HIV-infected dentist)
1991	OSHA enacts Bloodborne Pathogens Standard
1990s	OSAP contributes to guidelines, publishes position papers, presents education
2000–2010	OSAP introduces new version of If Saliva Were Red*, publishes CDC Guidelines training workbook*, Infection Control Mission Guide*, free online interactive training program on CDC guidelines*, launches I See IC video compliance contest and more
2001	OSHA revised Bloodborne Pathogens standard
2003	CDC publishes Updated CDC Guidelines for Infection Control in Dental Settings
2011	OSAP contributes to WHO Patient Safety Multi-Professional Curriculum Guide; launches compliance contest based on Contagion movie
2013	OSAP responds to Oklahoma infection control breach with educational programs at national conferences, a toolkit and other resources
2014	OSAP celebrates 30 years of knowledge translation (See page 2 for 2014 highlights)

*Through cooperative agreement with CDC

OSAP Recent Achievements

- Launched Safest Dental Visit™ campaign, an infection control educational program built around patient safety, a safe practice environment and positive behavior change.
- Opened an office in Atlanta, GA, near the CDC to foster its partnership with that important public health agency.
- Responded to MERS CoV, Ebola and Enterovirus D68 with toolkits, "InfoBites" and newsletters. In October, co-hosted an educational webinar on Ebola with CDC and the American Dental Association (ADA).
- Hosted two world-class educational events: Infection Control Boot Camp, a Core Training Course; and the 30th Anniversary Global Infection Prevention and Safety Symposium for advanced training
- Redesigned two member resources: weekly email "InfoBites" and "Infection Control in Practice Team Huddle™" publication, to increase engagement and interactivity in dental team education
- Participated as a founding member of a National Infection Control Consortium of eight national organizations including the CDC, Academy of General Dentistry, American Association of Dental Boards (AADB), ADA, American Dental Assistants Association (ADAA), American Dental Education Association (ADEA) and Dental Assisting National Board (DANB) on a framework for a national model for infection control and safety education.
- Conducted a national survey of dental practices on infection control compliance for CDC's National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). The survey results are being developed into a manuscript for publication in a national peer-reviewed journal.
- Honored the following leaders: Dr. Harold Jaffe with the Dr. James Crawford Award for Lifetime Achievement; AEGIS Communications with the Dr. Milton Schaefer Award for Superior Service to OSAP; Mrs. Kathy Marianos with the Bette & Paul Schwarz Award for Volunteerism and Dr. Bradley Kasson with a Special Recognition Award for Leadership.
- Integrated innovative infection control compliance education into other organizations to better reach clinical and academic settings

Join Us

Your support helps us improve infection control, prevent disease transmission and save lives.

As the only global organization dedicated exclusively to ensuring “safe dental care for people everywhere,” OSAP continues to reinvest in next-generation resources to ensure patient and provider safety. We require the continual support of the dental community in order to create and continue to improve infection control educational tools and resources. With your support we will be developing new e-learning and mobile curriculum programs including best practices checklists and a certification program. As it has done for the past 30 years, OSAP will continue to collaborate with public and private organizations and agencies, corporations and educational institutions to help the dental community advance the safety of oral health services in this era of emerging new pathogens, changing work practices and new oral health workforce models.

Please help OSAP continue to fulfill this vital role for all who provide oral health care services and all who receive those services.
