Why should you join AEG?

The benefits of AEG membership are many, but the simplest answer is that membership in AEG can enhance your technical and business knowledge, provide career opportunities, and introduce you to thousands of other professionals... all while having fun in the process! Here are just a few of the benefits members have identified regarding their AEG affiliation:

Networking/Professional Development

- Attendees report that AEG offers the best field trips in the industry.
- AEG excels at providing continuing education and CEU/PDH opportunities locally, nationally and internationally that are based on case histories and real-world experience.
- Members regularly boast of lasting friendships developed with other AEG members.
- AEG prides itself on its vast network of focused professionals that support one another to reach their goals and promote the profession.
- Regional meetings are often hosted with other affiliate organizations, allowing AEG members the opportunity to network with an even larger pool of professionals.

Publications

- AEG NEWS, published quarterly, summarizes events, local news, brief case histories and issues affecting our profession.
- Environmental & Engineering Geoscience is AEG's peer-reviewed technical journal, published quarterly.
- Our annual publications include the Annual Report and Directory and the Annual Meeting Program with Abstracts.
- AEG publishes several Special Publications, and regularly updates technical resources on our website at www.aegweb.org.

Career Resources/Career Growth

- AEG has numerous Sections and Chapters throughout the United States and internationally, offering regional opportunities to learn and network in a casual, yet professional atmosphere.
- Our volunteers are our greatest asset for promoting our profession and the organization. In return, volunteers gain valuable business skills such as project management, delegation, marketing, and strategic planning.
- AEG has several online opportunities to promote job openings and keep up to date on the latest happenings in science and industry. AEG's Career Center is open to the public, and our social media sites, LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter, are regularly updated with new information and opportunities.
- Our student members are provided a forum to present their research and network with other students as well as academic, government and private sector employers. Best of all, students can take advantage of most AEG sponsored activities at reduced or no cost.

Support of the Profession

- AEG promotes the value environmental and engineering geologists bring to each project. We advocate on behalf of our members to engineering groups, other geoscience organizations and local and national legislative leaders.
- AEG supports its members' efforts to establish, enhance or defend professional licensure through funding, communication and collaborative efforts.

"Networking at an AEG technical short course opened a door to a partnering opportunity for my small consulting firm that resulted in stimulating technical work and a long-term business relationship that has been successful for both companies."

– Deb Green
Tilford & Green Environmental & Engineering Geology

Discounts and Cost Savings

- AEG members enjoy discounts on publications, registration fees at meetings, short courses, and field trips.
- AEG members have access to discounted professional liability insurance that is specifically designed for environmental and engineering geologists.
- AEG members can receive a variety of travel, health, dental and disability insurance programs.
