

To the Editor:

New Jersey already has some of the toughest gun laws in the country, including a semi-automatic firearms ban and ammunition magazine capacity limits. The legislature's latest attempt to further restrict magazine capacity from 15 to 5 rounds (A3664) will do nothing to prevent another tragedy and everything to interfere with self defense, and it bans most self-defense guns. If my family faces a home invasion by multiple armed attackers in the middle of the night, the state should not force me to fumble around in the dark to change magazines – I should be able to have as much ammunition as possible to defend myself and my family. A3664 interferes with self-defense and will cost lives.

Sincerely,
