2015 Report for the APA Committee on the Status of Indigenous Philosophers

The committee worked on several key projects. The first was to develop criteria and a process for philosophers to submit panel ideas for APA conferences. The committee engaged this process for the first time this year and will sponsor a panel at the APA Pacific meeting in 2016. The committee hopes to engage this process annually. The second was the development of a call for papers for the newsletter.

Some areas of concern that have come up this year are finding funding for Indigenous philosophers to attend APA meetings and determining the best email lists to use to distribute committee announcements.
