

About the ASPE Certification Program

Certification by the American Society of Professional Estimators is the highest form of professional recognition a construction estimator can achieve. Through its certification program, ASPE recognizes the estimating proficiency and ethical awareness of the Certified Professional Estimator.

Each candidate seeking certification must meet these basic requirements.

- A minimum of five years experience
- Completion of ASPE workshop on certification guidelines & requirements
- Demonstrated technical writing abilities
- Demonstrated communication skills
- Successful completion of two certification exams

Once recognized as a CPE, the estimator is expected to keep abreast of current trends and improved practices in the construction industry as measured through the Certification Renewal Program. The Program requires renewal of certification every three years, which includes 90 verified Professional Development Units (PDU's).

Hire the Right Estimator

A Certified Professional Estimator on your team will have a positive impact on your capital project. What the CPA designation is to the accounting profession, CPE is to the construction industry. Awarded by the American Society of Professional Estimators, the certification program is the only one of its kind to “attest that a construction estimator has met the necessary education and experience and has the capabilities” that the challenging profession demands.

The United States has no uniform professional requirements for construction estimators. The CPE program fills that gap by testing and certifying the estimator’s knowledge, skills and by providing owners, architects, engineers, and contractors confidence in the accuracy and reliability of estimates produced by a CPE.
