F109 | Tunisian on the Diagonal

Teacher: Vashti Braha

Skill Level: All Skill Levels

Maximum Students: 28

Material Fee: $6.00

Material Fee Item(s): Optional: fee is for a Warm Aeroette or Aery Faery pattern. The rectangular Warm Aeroette scarf starts in one corner and is crocheted on the bias to the opposite corner. It was originally designed to be a practice pattern for a crochet class on the popular Aero Wrap. Aery Faery starts out a filet net parallelogram that turns into a diagonal mesh-like rectangle.

Description: Become an expert on going with the Tunisian flow and free up the dynamic energy in each Tunisian stitch! Crocheting diagonally with any stitch is a simple principle that has intriguing oddities and big payoffs. Tunisian crochet is naturally “biased” in favor of offset rows. All rows face the front, so it’s easy to learn the subtleties of increasing and decreasing symmetrically along the edges. Create a symmetrical triangle and a square of any size for modern-looking accessories. Taking advantage of the powerful 45° angle will add style and dynamic swing to the simplest shapes. When a square, rectangle, rhombus, or triangle has stretchy drape and artful grain, the result is effortlessly chic. Pick a yarn with built-in color changes for exciting diagonal stripes! It also works just as well for afghan motifs, pillows, hot pads, and other home decor. After this class you’ll understand how to get the effects of the designs pictured, and so much more. This method lends itself to crocheting fancy finished edges as you complete each row. It’s a great way to show off color-changing yarns. Gauging how far you’ll get on only one or two skeins is easier too. Crocheting on the bias is sometimes called starting in one corner, or C-2-C, but you don’t have to literally start in a corner. The instructor has explored the pros and cons of this quality for clothing and fashion accessories over several years, making this class an in depth guide to many interesting options. Masters Program: Explores an underused basic principle of crocheting fabric types in simple shapes: the 45° angle.

Student should bring: for class swatches, bring a smooth, light-colored yarn that is not slippery and that you enjoy using; and Tunisian crochet hooks of any length that are one or more sizes larger than usually used with the yarn you choose. The hook needn’t be long; in fact, you could use a regular crochet hook for Tunisian practice if it doesn’t have a thumb indent or attached handle. Softly variegated and ombre yarns are helpful for seeing the new stitch types. Some students get started on a project—scarf, cowl, even a simple shrug—later in the class, after shopping for a new yarn in the market during break! Patterns mentioned in this class will be available for you to get started on in class (see class fee information). See the pattern details at <https://designingvashti.com/product-category/vashti-braha-crochet-patterns/tunisian-crochet/> for details on yarn amounts and hook sizes you might wish to bring from home.

Homework: Please familiarize yourself with the Tunisian Simple Stitch before class.
