FCFP Announcement - The formation of the National Network of Credit & Financial Professionals

We are pleased to advise the FCFP membership that the Federation of Credit & Financial Professionals has entered into a joint arrangement with Riemer Reporting Service to create an organization called the National Network of Credit & Financial Professionals (NNCFP). The intent of this strategic partnership is to form a national association whose sole purpose is to create a powerful resource designed to provide Riemer and FCFP members access to education, training and best practice information related to world class order-to-cash and receivable management practices.

This new nonprofit organization serves to connect a network of over 2,000 credit and financial professionals together with nationally recognized economists, creditors' rights and bankruptcy attorneys, the Federal Reserve Bank and numerous credit and A/R service providers whose expertise can be shared in an effort to advance the credit and accounts receivable community throughout the U.S.

Under the terms of the partner program, the newly-formed organization will provide, free of additional charge, both FCFP and Riemer members access to a variety of resources including free educational webinars, research and educational papers, order-to-cash related surveys and studies, together with a Credit Professional Help Desk.

Obviously, as a FCFP member, you will receive additional benefits; such as, free of charge networking events, hard copies of distinguished articles and papers, a variety of in-person presentations and credit trade group services, etc.

I would encourage each of you to take full advantage of these expanded member offerings and to reach out with any ideas and suggestions you might have to further enhance your membership experience in FCFP. I may be reached at lwallis@federationofcredit.com

Thanks
Lyle
