IACP ISSUES STATE GUIDANCE

Missouri City, TX (December 7, 2012) – The International Academy of Compounding Pharmacists (IACP) today released recommendations for state-based legislative and regulatory priorities that are designed to ensure the best and safest practice of compounding pharmacy.

“Collaboration is critically important in the protection of public health,” said David G. Miller, R.Ph., Executive Vice President and Chief Executive Officer of IACP. “We seek to work constructively with state boards of pharmacy and state pharmacist associations to bring about the change needed at the state level to create the safest possible environment for the many patients who depend on compounding pharmacists for life sustaining and enriching medications.”
