BRINGING THE BEST TOGETHER
ALEXIAN BROTHERS MEDICAL CENTER NOW OFFERS REHABILITATION SERVICES WITH REHABILITATION INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO AND LOYOLA UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER

Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago (RIC) and Loyola University Medical Center have signed an agreement to form a joint physical medicine and rehabilitation program at Alexian Brothers.

Effective immediately, the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, IL, is under the medical direction and supervision of RIC.

The agreement stems from Alexian Brothers desire to enhance services provided in its 32 bed rehabilitation unit and become further recognized as a center of excellence for rehabilitation services in the Northwest and Western suburbs of Chicago, according to Brother Philip Kennedy, president and CEO of Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

"Since its opening in 1971, the Rehabilitation Center at Alexian Brothers has helped thousands of physically disabled people achieve their personal best by providing high-quality, compassionate care," he said. "In an effort to bring the department to an even higher level of excellence, we have become affiliated with the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago and Loyola, two institutions dedicated to excellence in patient care, research and education."

During the past few years, the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago has opened satellite facilities at downtown Chicago locations. The affiliation with Alexian Brothers and Loyola will help RIC establish a stronger link with the suburban community.

"The agreement not only helps us reach out to the community, it ensures that patients receive valuable continuity of care," said Henry Betts, M.D., medical director and CEO of the Institute. "By working together, our three institutions will provide comprehensive treatment to people at all levels of recovery."

Daniel Winship, M.D. dean of the Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine, adds, "This affiliation will offer opportunities for the education of medical students and training of resident physicians in physical medicine and rehabilitation, an indispensable field for helping restore quality of life to those who have suffered disabling injuries or health problems."

Named by U.S. News & World Report as the top rehabilitation center in the nation, RIC is affiliated with Northwestern University Medical School and houses the nation's largest medical residency program in rehabilitation medicine.

Designed exclusively for rehabilitation, RIC offers general rehabilitation as well as specialized programs in amputee care, brain trauma, burn, pain management, orthopedics, pediatric and adolescent rehabilitation, spinal cord injury and stroke.

"With RIC a national leader in research of disabling conditions and training of professionals who serve people with disabilities, Alexian Brothers hopes to eventually become a site for academic training and research in rehabilitation medicine," Kennedy added.

Loyola University Medical Center in Maywood is a university-based teaching, research and tertiary health care institution with a 658-member medical staff, all of whom are faculty members at the Loyola Stritch School of Medicine. The Level I trauma center ranks among the national leaders in treatment of cancer, burns and severe injuries, particularly those of the head and spinal cord.

Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago and Loyola University Medical Center are accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities.

REHABILITATION SERVICES NETWORK EXPANDS

Rick Rausch, PT and president of the Rehabilitation Services Network (RSN) has announced the addition of five new providers to the RSN network. With the new additions, the RSN network now serves twenty-nine adult out-patient rehabilitation clinics in the Chicago metropolitan area.

RSN is an independent practice association that contracts with managed care organizations and employers to provide quality out-patient physical, occupational, and speech therapy services.

Currently, the Rehabilitation Services Network serves 550,000 people. Rausch attributes the success of RSN to a rapidly changing health care market. "RSN is a perfect fit with those managed care organizations that are looking for one provider that can furnish community based rehabilitation services to all of it's members in the Chicago market. The future looks bright for RSN as more integrated health delivery systems develop."

In addition to twenty-nine adult sites, RSN also has six pediatric sites, one hand therapy clinic, and four home health providers as members.

For more information on the Rehabilitation Services Network call 312/944-7595.

WHAT:
Subacute Care in Illinois - Get the Straight Facts on New Regulations and Guidelines
An educational program jointly sponsored by the Illinois chapters of the American College of Health Care Administrators and the American Medical Directors Association.

The Illinois Senate Bill 0837 defines subacute care as "...physiological monitoring on a continual basis." -who does this mean?

WHERE AND WHEN:
October 4, 1993  October 5, 1993
MacNeal Hospital  Lutheran General Hospital
3249 S. Oak Park  1775 Dempster St.
Berwyn, IL 60402  Park Ridge, IL 60068

October 18, 1993  St. John's Hospital
800 E. Carpenter  Springfield, IL 62769

SPECIFICS:
The program will consist of a morning and afternoon session. Participants can register for the entire day or just one session. Attendees of the morning session will come away with a first hand knowledge of the new qualifications and regulations on subacute care and will include presenters from the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board, the Illinois Department of Public Health and the Illinois Department of Public Aid.

Attendees of the afternoon session will gain the knowledge they need to develop or enhance their own subacute area of practice. What works in your area? Learn about what's successful and what's not from a panel of professionals unique to each program's region.
