

Jeanne M. Erickson, PhD, RN, AOCN

Jeanne M. Erickson, PhD, RN, AOCN recently joined the College of Nursing faculty at the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee after teaching at the University of Virginia for 15 years. Her clinical program of research focuses on cancer-related symptom management in adolescents and young adults receiving chemotherapy, and she is interested in developing physical activity interventions to manage symptoms in this young population. Dr. Erickson is also involved in interprofessional education and research and has been funded by the Macy Foundation to develop and integrate interprofessional education into undergraduate nursing and medical curricula.