ISSA Code of Ethics

The primary goal of the Information Systems Security Association, Inc. (ISSA) is to promote practices that will ensure the confidentiality, integrity and availability of information resources. Therefore, the ISSA has established the following Code of Ethics and requires its observance for all members. As an applicant to ISSA's CISO Executive Membership program, I have in the past and will in the future:

- Promote generally accepted information security current best practices and standards
- Perform all activities and duties in accordance with all applicable laws and the highest ethical principles
- Maintain appropriate confidentiality of proprietary or otherwise sensitive information encountered in the course of member activities
- Discharge member responsibilities with diligence and honesty
- Refrain from any activities that might constitute a conflict of interest or otherwise damage the reputation of employers, the information security profession, the CISO Executive Membership or the ISSA
- Not intentionally injure or impugn the professional reputation or practice of colleagues, clients, or employers

The ISSA reserves the right to accept or reject any applicants based on their qualifications (see reverse) and the current capacity of the CISO Executive Membership. The ISSA may revoke the membership status of any participant if required, to maintain the integrity of the program. The ISSA does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, national origin, ancestry, sex, marital status, disability, religious or political affiliation, age or sexual orientation.

CISO Forum Membership Criteria

The CISO Executive Forum is a peer-to-peer event. The unique strength of this event is that members can feel free to share concerns, successes and feedback in a peer only environment. Membership criteria below will act as a guideline for approval.

1. CISO Membership applicants should be executive/senior-level information security professionals reporting directly to the CEO, CFO, CIO or the equivalent. In companies with more than 200 employees, CISO Executive Membership is open to qualified, executive direct reports of the organization's CISO. Individuals should be responsible for information security at the corporate or enterprise level within their organizations, be interested in discussing sensitive security issues with their peers, and be willing to share professional experiences. CISO Members employed by a company that sells security services or products must meet the following additional requirements:

- 1) The organization must have a clear separation between the internal security or research practitioner and those involved in sales, marketing or product management.
 - 2) The organization must have a minimum of 200 employees or a minimum of 2 direct reports to the CISO Member.
 - 3) The member must certify that he or she is not involved with the sales, marketing or product management of security products or offerings.
2. Each new member will be asked to complete an application stating their company size, number of direct reports, and industry sector, to determine the significance of their security portfolio. In addition, members will agree that they have read and qualify for CISO Membership. Any false statement on the application will be subject to review by the ISSA Ethics Committee and could result in cancellation of membership.
3. Any sales activity within the CISO Forum, by non-sponsors, is expressly forbidden and grounds for cancellation of membership.

I certify that I have read the CISO Membership Criteria and qualify for this ISSA membership type:
