National board member selection criteria:

Please provide a comprehensive statement to the below questions. You only have to answer the questions that apply to your personal experiences.

1. Do you possess an area of expertise that helps the association meet one or more of our strategic initiatives (see attached Strategic Plan)

My Experience is pretty broad, I've been working within the Procurement Profession for over 34 years. I have only been involved with Higher Ed Procurement for the past year coming from industry for the balance of my career. I possess a high level of business acumen centered on Supply Chain Management. Integrating Procure to Pay and Supply Chain programs to deliver value to organizations.

2. Broader perspective: Please list other noteworthy voluntary contributions of time, effort, resources and leadership abilities to NAEP and the procurement profession.

I have not had a lot of time in my previous roles to dedicate to the profession. In my current role, I want to change that. I believe that by being in this leadership role at UC Davis, I have the opportunity to shape the future of Procurement here at UC Davis, as well as the UC System. I also want to leverage that work and share what we are doing with other institutions so that we can all benefit and promote best practices. I am believe very strongly in collaborating and working together for the overall benefit of our profession.

3. Provide examples of the ability to develop strategic direction/vision and/or implement a strategic direction/vision. Have you been identified by peers as a thought leader?

I am very excited to be a part of UC Davis Procurement and sit on the Procurement Leadership Council for the UC System. I truly have a vision for the future and have been working to realize that vision by optimizing business processes and technology to deliver significant value. To quote a great philosopher; to make the whole stronger than the sum of its parts. I firmly believe that we need to learn from each other, share our experiences and leverage the knowledge of others in the profession to create a program that would be world class. I see that being a part of NAEP would be an integral element of that engagement and being a part of the NAEP leadership team would only facilitate that much more quickly.

4. Do you recognize and promote trends, issues and best practices for your institution and profession? Please describe.

Yes, sometimes I have been known to extend the “leading edge” to the “bleeding edge”. I am a student of the profession and am always looking to learn from others.

5. Please describe how you would confidently and articulately lead discussions and express opinions in a collaborative, collegial manner.

I would start by being a good listener, understanding the situation and assessing its potential impact. I tend to ask a lot of questions to gain clarity and probe for potential risks as well as testing of solutions. Confidentiality is paramount to trust and if information is shared with me in trust I would treat it with the respect that it deserves.

6. Do you mentor, engage and share information with current and potential NAEP national, regional or committee leaders? Or with staff?

I have not had the chance other than having a few discussions at the two conferences I have attended this year. I look forward to doing more as I further my engagement with NAEP.

7. What vision do you have for NAEP during your term? (Biggest challenges and how to solve them).

I am excited to be a part of NAEP. I have found that NAEP is a lot more collaborative than my years of engagement with ISM. I find the membership to be engaged, interested in building strong programs as well a lot of fun. I believe that we need to promote the concept of creating value through shared experience and professional engagement. Being a part of the NAEP leadership team would be a great honor as well as an opportunity to give back to the profession to advance and benefit each of the campuses and Procurement Professionals engaged in the organization.

Candidates should also have a commitment to contribute the time, interest, ability and resources necessary to complete assignments promptly and professionally.
