

The Electronics Recycling Guide

Many companies have now developed programs that make it easier to reduce the amount of electronics ending up in our waste stream.

The chart on the right shows available recycling opportunities provided by electronics manufacturers and retailers.

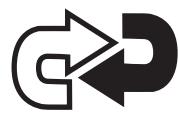

Each company has created unique incentives to encourage recycling. Click on the chart icons to learn which recycling program is right for you.

Donate

Consider donating any unwanted electronic products that are still in usable condition. Here are some resources to help you find where to donate electronics. Click on each link for details.

- Goodwill
- Recycle Computers 4 Cancer
- The National Cristina Foundation
- World Computer Exchange

Trade-In

Trade-in your electronic product for a gift card from a sponsoring company.

Drop Off

Drop off boxes are found in many electronics retail locations. This is a convenient way to recycle unwanted products. Some fees may apply-- contact the company for details.

Mail Back

Electronic mail-back programs allow you to recycle from home. Some fees may apply-- visit the company's website for details.

For more information about electronics recycling and to find the nearest electronics recycling location near you, visit:

Earth911.com or greenergadgets.org

Disclaimer: Companies are constantly updating and improving their recycling programs. Please check with each company to see which products are currently being accepted. Click on each dot for details.

AT&T	●	●	●	●
	●	●	●	●
	●	●	●	●
Sprint	●	●	●	●
	●	●	●	●
Apple		●	●	●
SONY		●	●	●
		●	●	●
		●	●	●
	●			*
		●	●
		*		*
NOKIA		●		●
			●	*
			●	●
			●	●
			●	●
Walmart		●
Office Depot			●
Blackberry				●
				●
Nintendo				●

Not all products may be accepted. Click on each dot for details.

* Program only available for company brand

● Some fees may apply, visit company website for details

● Fees may apply for non-brand products.