New Member Announcement

Commonwealth Perinatal Services is pleased to welcome

Margaret S. Villers, MD

Dr. Margaret Villers graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Johns Hopkins University and received her post-baccalaureate degree in Biology from Old Dominion University. She graduated with her medical doctorate from the Georgetown University School of Medicine in Washington, D.C., then moved to Tennessee to complete her internship in Obstetrics & Gynecology at Vanderbilt University. Dr. Villers then completed her residency in Obstetrics & Gynecology at Duke University Medical Center and subsequently joined the faculty at the Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC). During her seven years as a generalist at MUSC, Dr. Villers also received her Masters of Science in Clinical Research. She returned to Duke University Medical Center to complete her fellowship in Maternal- Fetal Medicine prior to joining Commonwealth Perinatal Services.

Dr. Villers is board-certified in Obstetrics & Gynecology and is fellowship-trained in maternal-fetal medicine. She held several faculty appointments in the Division of Maternal-Fetal Medicine at Duke University Hospital where she supervised residents on labor and delivery, conducted Maternal-Fetal Medicine consultations, and reviewed fetal ultrasounds. She also served as the Medical Director for Labor and Delivery at the Medical University of South Carolina.

Exceptional, compassionate care quality and patient safety are paramount to Dr. Villers. She has served on several medical committees including the American Congress of Obstetrics and Gynecology Committee on Patient Safety and Quality Improvement, the Medical University of South Carolina's hospital-wide EPIC Steering Committee, and both the resident education and hospital quality improvement committees at the Medical University of South Carolina.

Dr. Villers is looking forward to serving women in the Richmond community as part of Commonwealth Perinatal Medicine. She is currently welcoming referrals.
