Fall Education Series 2011  Workshop Descriptions

All courses will meet at the University of Utah College of Social Work Goodwill Community Room. Parking is reserved in the EAST STADIUM LOT only (east of Rice Eccles Stadium)

Friday, October 14
9a-12p
Yoga: A Tool for Compassion Fatigue and Stress Reduction--for the Clinician and the Client
Yael Calhoun, M.A., M.S., RYT, and Elizabeth Finlinson, LCSW  3 ceu’s
The class provides general information on the yoga/social work connection, compassion fatigue, stress reduction, and self-care for the clinician. Then, from an informed position, social workers can evaluate the appropriate yoga options for themselves and for their clients, both within and outside of the therapy setting.

1p-4p
Introduction to the Principles and Skills of DBT Chuck Nuttall, LCSW  3 ceu’s
Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT) is an empirically validated treatment for complex, treatment resistant mental illnesses. Studies have shown efficacy with Borderline Personality Disorder (BPD), substance use disorders, and binge eating disorders. DBT is a principle driven treatment, with a strong skills-training component. The following workshop will focus on the underlying principles of DBT, specifically Dialectic theory and the balance of acceptance and change. This will include discussion of the biosocial theory and development of emotional dysregulation, how clients are conceptualized through this framework, and assumptions about dysregulated clients. Application of these principles will be discussed via specific emotion regulation skills (Check the Facts, Opposite to Emotion Action, and Problem Solving). Attendees should leave the workshop with an understanding of the principles driving DBT, and how to use a sub-set of the Emotion Regulation skills developed to help clients self-regulate intense emotions.

Friday, November 18
9a-12p
Treating Pornography and Sexual Addiction Dan Gray, LCSW  3 ceu’s
The internet and other technologies have greatly contributed to the increased numbers of individuals seeking professional help for their compulsive and addictive sexual behaviors. To help clinicians know what we’re facing, this training will address some of the current trends in the world of cybersex. It will also address important therapeutic issues in treating individuals and couples seeking help for disruptive, hypersexual behaviors.

1p-4p
Self Care: Managing Compassion Fatigue Through Mindfulness, Meditation and Story
Marc Potter, LCSW  3 ceu’s
In this workshop, we will explore compassion fatigue through story and learn the basics of mindfulness meditation that can be practiced anywhere. By paying attention to your breath, you will be able to calm your mind and open your heart. We will then spend time exploring the wonder and awe in our work and learn tech-

Saturday, November 5
9a-5p  Lunch Provided
Licensing Prep Course
Sue Middleton, PhD, LCSW
Join us for the most effective preparation course for your licensing exam. You will be involved in a one day intense course designed with students' busy schedules in mind. A comprehensive preparation book will be provided as companion to the course (unless you opt to register without the study guide). This course will review items frequently seen on the Masters and Clinical exams. This course will not teach all of the concepts; rather, it will refresh and clarify what you have learned either in school or as a social worker. Test taking strategies and a review of all content areas will leave you feeling prepared and confident. Study Guide and course have been modified top reflect recent changes to the ASWB exam.
NASW: social work’s professional voice

Be empowered. Be a voice for social work.

Economic times are hard and we appreciate your continued membership in NASW. There truly is strength in numbers, but sadly, only 25% of social workers belong to NASW, which is social work’s ONLY collective voice on behalf of wages, safety issues, loan forgiveness, licensing, caseloads, prestige, professionalism, and political influence.

The work we do is not possible without your membership. Now more than ever we appreciate your commitment to NASW and professional social work!

To show our appreciation, this year we have added many new benefits for Utah NASW members, including the Tom Mulder Memorial Fund Dinner and Lecture (3 free ceu’s); FREE 3 ceu online ethics course (go to www.utnasw.org); discounts on the licensing prep course, one free workshop during the Fall Professional Education Series (with paid registration); discount on the “Critical Issues” conference for student members and of course, free ceu offerings through our “CEU’s Near You” series in Northern Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah County, Cedar City and St. George, and beginning October 14th, EAPrefer. As always, members receive free ethical consultation and discounts on courses, liability insurance and publications!

Thank you for giving social work a collective voice on behalf of issues crucial to our long term sustainability as a profession. It really is one of the most empowering choices you can make!

Elise Kasteler Hutchings Fall Scholarship Recipient Announced

Longtime NASW member, former NASW president, NASW pioneer®, and University of Utah alumnae, Elise Hutchings, LCSW, ACSW has established both an annual award and a scholarship fund for outstanding University of Utah social work students who demonstrate academic aptitude and leadership in NASW at its intersection with social work practice.

This year’s Elise Kasteler Hutchings Scholarship recipient was Jenna Christensen, a second year MSW student. In addition to the scholarship fund, the Elise Kasteler Hutchings NASW Annual Award recognizes an outstanding graduating student and NASW member for his/her commitment to the relevance of NASW in social work practice. The Spring 2011 Award recipient was Stephen Moore, an advanced standing MSW student. Both the scholarship and the annual award honor students who demonstrate involvement and membership in NASW, and an interest in and dedicated service to social work practice.

Look for additional details regarding the Elise Kasteler Hutchings Scholarship for Leadership in NASW at: www.socwk.utah.edu/students/financialaidscholarships.html

July 21st - Dinner and Lecture  NASW hosted the first Tom Mulder Memorial Fund Dinner and Lecture on July 21, 2011 at the University of Utah College of Social Work. The lecture, facilitated by Don Austin, LCSW, and focused on coming-out issues was attended by over 50 social workers and community members. The dinner and three ceu lecture were free for NASW members. NASW hopes to offer two similar events annually in both Salt Lake and St. George.

August 28th-Fundraiser  Don Austin and Brett Clifford hosted a wonderful garden party to benefit the Tom Mulder Memorial Fund. Attendees donated $1,200 to support the Tom Mulder Memorial Fund. The Tom Mulder Memorial Fund is funded through private donations and is intended to support LGBT-related clinical education for social workers in Utah.

All donations to the Tom Mulder Memorial Fund are tax deductible. If you are interested in donating to the Tom Mulder Memorial Fund, please visit our website, www.utnasw.org, or call us at 801-583-8855. MEMBER RECOGNITION
NASW, Utah Chapter would like to recognize and congratulate the following members who have exceeded the practice expectations for social workers by achieving nationally recognized credentials and certifications for the profession of social work.

Kay D. Simons, LCSW, C-ASWCM
Certified Advanced Social Worker Case Managers (C-ASWCM) reflects advanced training in complex client case management. C-ASWCM’s strive to meet the complex needs of clients and have a strong sense of professional identity and commitments to the core values outlined in the NASW Code of Ethics, the NASW Standards for Social Work Case Management, and the NASW Standards for Continuing Professional Education.

Gordon Limb, PhD, ACSW
The Academy of Certified Social Workers (ACSW) is a leadership credential and a symbol of social work excellence. The ACSW holder enjoys worldwide recognition from peers, clients, and employers. Employers and agencies have recognized the merits of engaging ACSW social workers as the most highly qualified to staff key leadership positions within their organizations.

Paula Ann Larsen, LCSW, ACHP-SW
The Advanced Certified Hospice and Palliative Social Worker (ACHP-SW) is the premier credential for social workers in end-of-life care and those who practice social work in pain and symptom management, and who possess the specialized knowledge, skills, and abilities of professional social workers in hospice and palliative care settings.

LISTINGS UPDATED WEEKLY!
A Members-only benefit
My name is Jenna Christensen and I am a second year MSW student at the University of Utah, as well as the MSW intern at Utah NASW, a position that didn’t exist until this year.

I entered the MSW program from a political science background with the intention of going into macro work and social policy. I wasn’t going to be a micro practitioner and because I saw NASW as an organization exclusively for them, I had very little interest in it. Thankfully, my ambivalence changed drastically my second semester here.

In my Communities and Organizations course I worked with two other women, Tyler Asman and Jessica Curtis, on a needs assessment. We chose NASW and the primary population it serves – social workers. We saw social workers as an underserved population and we wanted to know why that was.

Many of our research findings were incredibly disheartening. We are all (perhaps painfully) aware of the low salaries endured by social workers. In fact, social workers are the lowest paid mental health professionals and yet we provide more services than psychiatrists, psychologists, and psychiatric nurses. Not surprisingly we are also among the lowest paid masters level professionals.

It’s impossible to blame this on one phenomenon. However, there is a simple process that would help alleviate the adversities faced by social workers: join NASW, renew your membership, and become involved. You’ll get all the perks of membership, but more importantly (in my opinion), you’ll have the power of a collective voice.

Putting trust in NASW is both problematic and essential for social workers. It is problematic because social workers generally don’t make self-care a priority. In the graduate program here, personal self-care is heavily emphasized, but what about professional self-care? With dismal retention rates and a mass exodus to private practice, it is evident that something is not working. Social workers are not taking care of their profession.

Professional self-care is simply not a priority among social workers and it isn’t difficult to see why. Social workers are so focused on doing what is best for their clients, they forget to do what is best for themselves, even if it will help their clients in the long run. Indeed, national membership in NASW is currently around 24%. It is because of this lack of self-interest that membership is essential to the growth and respect of the social work profession. NASW has the resources to make social work a more attractive, rewarding, respected profession, but only if social workers put their trust in their professional organization. My research really helped me realize that there really is a high cost to low membership.

Jenna graduated from Utah State University with a degree in political science. Before entering the MSW program, she completed an internship with the Senate Democratic and Steering Committee under Senator Harry Reid. After graduation, Jenna hopes to pursue a career in the social policy arena. Jenna will be a tremendous asset to NASW! Welcome Jenna!

Beginning in October NASW will launch EAPrefer™ in Utah. EAPrefer is an exciting new benefit – solely for NASW members – that puts your expertise and experience as social workers to use as Employee Assistance Professionals.

By participating in EAPrefer, Utah NASW members can provide much-needed services to the community through the workplace, helping employees with issues ranging from substance abuse to childcare. Members have the opportunity to receive referrals from EAP network providers through a program that allows them to easily match qualified social workers with clients in need.

“I think this is a terrific new benefit for our members‖, said Emily Bleyl, LCSW, Utah Executive Director. “Participating in EAPrefer can provide an excellent opportunity for our members to build their private practice or supplement their existing income, with a program tailored to fit their schedule.”

EAPrefer has made it easy for members to participate by prescreening and negotiating with select EAP network providers in Utah to provide fair compensation. EAPrefer has also reduced much of the paperwork and administrative burden by creating an easy system for members to sign up and begin receiving referrals. To learn more about EAPrefer, requirements for participation, and to sign up please visit www.eaprefer.org or call 866-307-2325 to speak with a representative.

How it Works

The EAPrefer program allows EAP network providers to easily match qualified social workers with clients who need them. As an NASW member participating in EAPrefer, your information will be provided to a regional EAP network provider, which may contract with you to deliver services to employees on a range of issues from financial and work-related stresses, to relationship and care giving concerns.

How it Benefits You

The EAPrefer program was developed as a benefit of your NASW membership at no cost to you. It’s an opportunity for you to strengthen your private practice, supplement your current income, or enable you to continue to work in the profession after retirement. It’s designed to be flexible to fit your schedule. You’ll have the opportunity to determine when and if you take on cases.

Plus, the process is streamlined, with limited paperwork and fair and timely reimbursements. NASW ASI has negotiated with select EAP network providers in your area, and has created an easy system for you to sign up and begin receiving referrals, if you qualify. To qualify, you must have an MSW or PhD, state licensure, and hold professional liability insurance.

Visit www.eaprefer.org or call 866-307-2325 to speak with a representative.
