

KOROSEAL INTERIOR PRODUCTS APPOINTS JOHN FARRELL CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

Fairlawn, Ohio, June 29, 2015 – Koroseal Interior Products, LLC (“Koroseal” or the “Company”), a leading manufacturer and distributor of commercial interior products, announced today that John Farrell has been appointed Chief Operating Officer. In his role, Mr. Farrell will be responsible for all manufacturing, distribution, and customer service operations.

Rich Runkel, CEO of Koroseal, said, “We continue to attract top talent to the Company and are pleased to welcome John. I look forward to his leadership of the most critical functions in our business – those that ensure an unparalleled level of service to our customers. With decades of leadership experience in our industry, John is uniquely qualified to set the strategic direction of key customer-facing activities and ensure the alignment of our leading sales and marketing organization with the manufacturing and distribution operations.”

Mr. Farrell added, “I am excited to join the talented team at Koroseal to lead the operations in its next phase of innovation and growth. I look forward to working closely with my colleagues to implement the processes and best-practices that will ensure that Koroseal’s operations and customer experience are nothing short of exceptional.”

Prior to joining Koroseal, Mr. Farrell served in several leadership roles including Chief Operating Officer of Consolidated Scrap Resources and as Executive Vice President of York Wallcoverings, a leading interior products manufacturer. At York, Mr. Farrell spent approximately 16 years in various roles and led the sales and marketing, customer service, distribution, and manufacturing organizations.
