Project Description: Volunteers will help remove invasive species plants from land that was recently acquired by Hiram as part of our Field Station. Professor Matt Hils, Associate Director Jim Metzinger '88, Field Station Steward Emliss Ricks, and Jim Tolan '86 will lead volunteers into the property to remove the invasive plants (multi-floral rose). At 11:00 a.m. we will tour Hiram's Eagle Creek project to show the progress of a project there that is rerouting a stream to its natural flow.

About Site: The Barrow Field Station has grown in size to include property that was once known as the Stavenger Farm on the North side of Route 82 as you head into Garrettsville from Hiram. In addition, we have worked with numerous organizations on property across the street from the Stavenger property to provide ecosystem protection and restoration focusing on preserving water quality in Eagle Creek and Silver Creek.
