Full Sail University named 2011 School of the Year by the Florida Association of Postsecondary Schools and Colleges

MIAMI, FL – Aug. 11, 2011 – Full Sail University has received two top honors, including 2011 School of the Year, from the Florida Association of Postsecondary Schools and Colleges (FAPSC), a statewide organization representing more than 200 career-oriented schools.

Isis Jones at Full Sail University was the recipient of the 2011 Administration & Management Administrator of the Year award, which was presented at the FAPSC Annual Conference in August. The award is given out to one recipient each year.

“Iris’s vision and leadership has benefited her school for more than a decade. Her unwavering commitment has led to growth in degree programs, online programs and distance learning initiatives that have resulted in successful graduate outcomes,” said Kathy Mizereck, executive director of FAPSC.

Full Sail University also was named FAPSC School of the Year in recognition of its achievements toward student success and for its community involvement.

“This school is constantly evolving to create a place where students can learn how to take their passion for entertainment and turn it into a career they love. Many of these students have earned the most prestigious awards in their industries using the knowledge and training they earned at Full Sail University,” Mizereck said.

Fourteen annual awards were selected by a panel and handed out during the FAPSC Annual Conference in South Florida attended by more than 460 administrators and faculty members.

The Florida Association of Postsecondary Schools and Colleges (FAPSC) works on behalf of all Florida’s degree granting and non-degree granting career schools and colleges. Licensed by the state, these schools educate and prepare more than 379,000 students each year for employment in more than 200 occupational fields.
