Anthem College takes home top award from the Florida Association of Postsecondary Schools and Colleges

ORLANDO, FL – Sept. 16, 2013 – John Hill of Anthem College has received top honors as 2013 Member of the Year from the Florida Association of Postsecondary Schools and Colleges (FAPSC), a statewide organization representing private career schools.

Hill, a program chair and curriculum coordinator for Anthem College, was recognized at the FAPSC Annual Conference held recently in South Florida. The award was given for extraordinary volunteering, leadership and dedication to the association.

“John has made a significant impact on the programming offered by the association. Serving on the continuing education committee, he provides guidance and leadership on a vast array of relevant topics and presenters who engage and inform members at our workshops,” said Curtis Austin, executive director of FAPSC.

FAPSC has been the voice of Florida’s career schools since 1956. The association of more than 250 members works on behalf of more than 1,000 licensed private career schools and colleges in Florida that prepare 400,000 students each year for employment in more than 200 occupational fields by offering degree programs, certification and training.

Anthem College provides degree and diploma programs in business, technology, allied health and paralegal fields.
