International Conference on Forensic Nursing Science and Practice

Denver

ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2016
Sept. 29 – Oct. 2
Sheraton Denver Downtown Hotel
Greetings Colleagues!

International Association of Forensic Nurses, multidisciplinary collaborators, and esteemed guests, I would like to personally invite each of you to Denver, Colorado this fall to the 2016 International Conference on Forensic Nursing Science and Practice. I look forward to seeing old friends and meeting new ones from around the world as we embark on this exciting opportunity for learning in the serene setting provided by the crystal blue skies above the dark pine forest of the beautiful Rocky Mountains.

While you are here, I hope you schedule some downtime to regroup and renew. Let your mind drift away to visit a few of the most beautiful places in Denver. Take a trip to Rocky Mountain National Park, drive to the summit of Pikes Peak, or stroll through Winter Park. Taste the culinary cuisine of Colorado’s best in Denver. Then swing over to the art museum and botanical gardens. Or simply, you could just have some fun at the downtown Aquarium. Denver has something for everyone: shopping, dining, spas, excursions, art/culture, and outdoor adventure.

Once refreshed, it is time to get down to business. The world of Forensic Nursing is an exciting area in which to work and study. This conference is devoted to you and we will continue to meet and bring inspired people together to ensure the IAFN remains on the cutting edge. This conference will be boasting with new research and many inspiring, intense, and important topics. Our keynote presentations include Dr. Sharon Cooper, Lt. Joe Laramie (retired), Dr. Darcy Copeland, and Dr. AnnJanette Alejano-Steel, examining topics including digital dangers affecting our youth; workplace violence in healthcare settings and the concepts of compassion fatigue and compassion satisfaction; and human trafficking. The one-day Institutes (Sudden, Unexpected Infant Death Investigation and The Medical and Legal Aspects of Handling Non-Fatal Strangulation Cases), Workshops (such as Expert Witness Training), and dozens of sessions divided among nine tracks will help educate you to construct your future forward.

I would like to thank each of you, in advance, for attending the International Conference on Forensic Nursing Science and Practice and bringing your expertise to the on-site discussions and networking opportunities. Additionally, I send a special thank you to our membership. As a membership organization, it is you, the members, that have the vision, the knowledge, and the experience to help us pave our way into the future. Last but not least, I would also like to express my warmest thanks to Carol Dunn, IAFN Meetings and Events Planner; Denise Covington, Chair of the Planning Committee; and the 2016 Planning Committee for their tireless efforts in organizing and supporting this conference. Expert Witness Testimony in Sex Trafficking: A Forensic Nursing Perspective

Presenter: Sharon Cooper, MD FAAP

This presentation will describe the role of expert witness testimony in child sex trafficking cases. Having a thorough understanding of the four major areas of victim impact in this form of sexual exploitation will assist a professional in organizing testimony to address each of these health risk areas. Participants will be able to cite the important standard literature that can assist one’s testimony should a Daubert hearing become required in this type of trial. Participants will review non-genital findings that support the diagnosis of this form of victimization. Additional information regarding offender typology as has been described in the literature and the varying types of grooming will be reviewed.
Children in a Digital Age
Presenter: Lt. Joe Laramie, ret.

In an age where technology is in the hands of youth of all ages, the dangers of abuse can affect any child, from any background. These dangers, ranging from cyberbullying to self-victimization to sexual exploitation and abuse can be difficult to identify. Also, preventing these digital abuses often relies upon the failed use of scare tactics, because children and teens don’t see themselves as vulnerable. This keynote will focus on the variety of digital dangers affecting our youth, the best methods of obtaining disclosures, and effective messaging to prevent digital abuses.

Well known speaker and award recipient, Joe Laramie is currently with the National Criminal Justice Training Center of Fox Valley Technical College. With more than 30 years of child protection, investigation and training experience, Lt. Laramie has contributed to a number of organizations including his time as Lieutenant of the Glendale, Missouri Police Department. He is currently a member of the National Coalition to Prevent Child Sexual Abuse and Exploitation and member of the Board of Directors for the Davis House. In addition to his undergraduate degree, Lt. Laramie is a 2004 graduate of the FBI National Academy.

Violence, Compassion Fatigue, and Compassion Satisfaction in the Emergency Department
Presenter: Darcy Copeland, PhD

This session will provide an overview of workplace violence in healthcare settings and the concepts of compassion fatigue and compassion satisfaction. Results of a multidisciplinary study of emergency department staff members’ exposure to violence, tolerance to and expectation of violence, perception of safety, and compassion fatigue will be discussed. In addition, implications for practice and research will be shared.

Darcy Copeland is currently an Assistant Professor of Nursing at the University of Northern Colorado and a Nurse Scientist at St Anthony Hospital in Lakewood, CO. Her recent work has focused on workplace issues, including compassion fatigue and exposure to workplace violence. She has extensive clinical experience in mental health nursing; has experience as an infirmary nurse in a maximum security prison for men; and worked with a grant funded program for dually diagnosed, homeless individuals transitioning back to the community from jail or prison. Dr. Copeland holds a PhD in nursing from UCLA.

Now You See It, Now You Don’t: Identifying Human Trafficking Survivors in the Health Care System
Presenter: AnnJanette Alejano-Steele, PhD

The Sunday Breakfast Keynote will provide a comprehensive overview of human trafficking and its overlaps with similar crimes, the crime’s relevance to forensic nursing (both identification and investigation), roles in a comprehensive community response, and primary tools for identification.

Dr. AnnJanette Alejano-Steele (A.J.) has been teaching, researching, and speaking on human trafficking since 2000. Currently, she is a professor in the departments of women’s studies and psychology at Metropolitan State University of Denver as well as the co-founder and Research and Training Director for the Denver-based Laboratory to Combat Human Trafficking. Her expertise has focused upon multicultural psychology, health access for vulnerable populations, and comprehensive services for victims of human trafficking. In 2013, she was named a CBS4 Game Changer.
