

1989 ITAA Fellow – Helen Douty

Helen J. Douty, Professor Emeritus, Auburn University, has served on ACPTC regional committees and the Executive Board. She has done extensive travel to study peoples in their native cultures and environments in Europe, the Orient, Hawaii, Iron Curtain Countries, Central and South America, and the Middle East. Her notable research has been in graphic somatometry and body contour analysis with application to garment making and fitting. Currently, she is working on the effect of clothing on personal perception and social interaction. She is acknowledged for her integrity, energy and steadfastness.