"SHEERA"

SPAYED FEMALE-Pit Bull Mix. Blue fawn with beautiful faint golden brindle. Shorthair. Medium size, Approx 40 pounds, 8 years

Sheera spent the last year living with her owner, both homeless, in a car. During the height of a winter blizzard, Sheera's owner took her to a local police department and surrendered her. For now, Sheera is living in a local shelter. It was rough for her at first, scary, and overwhelming, but she has wormed her way up into everyone's hearts. There is no hand that she can't push her soft nose under. Sheera's tail wags non-stop as soon as she sees someone or if anyone even looks at her. Cover her up in her blanket and she can't hide her wagging tail. She's a typical pitty who loves to snuggle in blankets. Sheera gets short spurts of puppyhood. She is spotless in her kennel and teases to go out. She's a great walker and hardly pulls (unless a cat crosses her path though... she doesn't care for them). Sheera has some arthritis, so short walks are better and the cold affects her, but she's happy just taking any walk, then settling in for a nap. She also loves to go for car rides. Sheera would prefer to be the only dog, but may be able to get attached to a new canine friend if the personalities match.

With the assistance of the MVMA Charities, Inc. and its Stray Animal Program, Sheera has undergone ACL surgery and is expected to regain the spring in her step.

Update: Sheera is with a wonderful foster home. Her foster mom is just trying to convince "foster dad" that Sheera has found her forever home.
