

SACSA – Communities of Engagement

Getting Connected

Step 1: Log into SACSA webpage and update your profile

On the right navigation menu, go to "Manage Profile" and "Edit Bio" to update your basic information. On the right navigation menu, go to "Profile Home" to upload a picture. It will allow people to put faces to names as more member engage.

Step 2: Join communities and engage

Members may join as many communities as they like. Much like Blackboard, Canvas, and other online educational tools, there is a way to create and engage in a forum to keep conversation groups together. It allows for conversations to remain grouped together if a member is particularly interested in one discussion.

The screenshot displays the SACSA web interface. On the left, there's a sidebar for the 'COE: Higher Ed Legal Issues' community, listing roles like COE Coordinator (Kristin Walker), COE Facilitator (Ashlon I Selby), and Webmaster (Zach Oberkorn). The main content area shows a 'Recent Forum Activity' section with several posts, including 'Welcome to COE: Higher Ed Legal Issues!', 'N.J. makes it easier for kids of unauthorized immigrants to get college aid', and 'Fraternity and Sorority Misconduct Reporting'. To the right, there's a 'My Profile' section with options like 'Profile Home', 'Manage Profile', and 'Create Resume/CV'. Below that is a 'Calendar' section showing dates from 11/6/2016 to 11/14/2016. On the far right, a vertical list of forum posts is visible, with the top one titled '"Bathroom" Laws' by K. Walker, dated 4/21/2016 at 2:40:05 PM GMT. The interface includes navigation menus at the top and bottom, and various icons for user actions.

Members can subscribe to different forums to receive email updates on forum topics that are of particulate interest to them.

COE: Leadership and Supervision Forums

The screenshot shows the 'COE: Leadership and Supervision Forums' section. It features a navigation bar with options like 'Group Home', 'Directory & Features', and 'Options'. Below this, there are links for 'Group Admin Options' and 'Change Homepage Layout'. The main content area is titled 'Leadership and Supervision' and contains several posts. The first post is 'How First Time Managers Can Avoid Flaming Out' with a link to a resource at the Center for Creative Leadership. The second post is 'Owning Your Supervisory Needs AKA managing up' by Kristin Walker, discussing strategies for managing supervisors. The third post is 'Your team doesn't trust you' by a user named 'Thought Leaders', discussing trust in a team. The interface includes a search bar at the top and various icons for user actions.

Step 3: Encourage members to join and engage in the communities
