

WORLD ENVIRONMENT DAY LECTURES & AWARDS 2018

SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

World Environment Day celebrates and promotes environmental awareness and sustainability across the globe – a United Nations initiative held annually on the 5th June.

The Society for the Environment champions World Environment Day and what it stands for. It has highlighted important global issues since its beginning in 1974 including climate change, marine pollution and wildlife crime.

The global theme for 2018 is “Plastic Pollution” – a topic that has hit the headlines recently through high profile campaigns, TV series such as Blue Planet II and a strong focus within DEFRA’s 25 Year Environment Plan.

This is the second year the Society has showcased World Environment Day with an expert led event and a delegate list from across their 24 Licensed Professional Bodies that span a wide range of sectors.

New to the 2018 event is the inclusion of the Society’s annual presentation of the Environmental Professional of the Year Award – recognising the outstanding work of Chartered Environmentalists (CEnv) and Registered Environmental Technicians (REnvTechs) – as well as the award of three new Honorary Fellows of the Society for the Environment (HonFSE). These awards will contribute to an evening of celebrating and showcasing the achievements of those striving to protect and enhance the environment on a daily basis.

Alongside the awards will be a series of HonFSE Lectures, providing expert insight into environmental issues and case studies. A fantastic learning opportunity for delegates, alongside the chance to network with leading experts during refreshment breaks. Confirmed speakers include member of the government’s Natural Capital Committee and former Chief Executive of the Environment Agency, Professor Paul Leinster CBE CEnv, and former Chief Executive of Natural Resources Wales, Emyr Roberts.

This is your chance to a part of a unique, environmentally focused event that brings together environmental experts from sectors including engineering, agriculture, waste management, water, sciences, energy, ecology and forestry.
