Industry Advisory Committee Meeting

Palm DE

- Industry Advisory Committee IRP Business (3:30 – 5 pm)
- Industry Discussion of Motor Carrier Issues Unrelated to IRP (5 – 6 pm)

All are welcome and encouraged to attend. The IRP Industry Advisory Committee provides a forum for industry representatives attending IRP meetings to compare notes on issues and, because the meetings are open, for state and provincial representatives to find out what’s on industry’s mind. All industry and jurisdiction representatives are encouraged to participate.

5 – 6 pm

What’s “The Plan”?

Ironstone

Targeted toward newcomers to IRP, this session provides context for our work by reviewing IRP’s history. After the session, attendees will be able to:

- Describe what issues existed for interstate commercial vehicle operation prior to IRP.
- Identify the fundamental principles of and reasons for IRP.
• Explain the value of IRP for jurisdictions and industry regarding commercial vehicle operation. Credit will be granted toward the IRP Education Fundamentals Certificate for anyone attending this session.

Navigating the Future
Palm ABDE

Sponsored by Legatus Solutions Corporation

What demographic, societal, cultural and technological trends will impact our organizations in the next 10-15 years? What will the winning workplaces of tomorrow look like? What do we need to know about the future, and what do we need to be doing now to ensure success? Buckle up, because Matt Thornhill, founder of the Institute for Tomorrow, will educate, enlighten, and engage IRP members about how tomorrow will be vastly different from today.

Matt Thornhill is founder and managing partner of the think tank, the Institute for Tomorrow. Matt is a research-based futurist whose insights are rooted in understanding how generational dynamics are impacting trends in the marketplace and in work cultures today and tomorrow. Matt doesn’t predict the future, but helps organizations plan for tomorrow. Matt has spoken about the future using a generational lens at over 300 conferences and events in the United States, Canada, Spain, Brazil, and even Panama. He has delivered insights to organizations like Walmart, Google, Lowes Home Improvement, AARP, Wells Fargo, National Governors Association, and even the rocket scientists at NASA. Matt’s opinions and insights are sought by media around the world. He’s appeared on NBC, CBS, CNBC, and in articles in BusinessWeek, TIME, The Washington Post, The New York Times and countless others. He is also the co-author of the acclaimed business book, Boomer Consumer.

Truckers Against Trafficking

Palm ABDE

At any given time there are more truck drivers out on the road than there are law enforcement officers. These drivers often find themselves in places where they intersect with potential victims of domestic sex trafficking, and are thus the eyes and ears of our nation’s roadways. Truckers Against Trafficking (TAT) works in and through the trucking industry to raise up this transient army to assist law enforcement in recognizing and recovering victims. Learn about the critical role you can play in helping TAT achieve its mission.

All attendees will participate in three 35 minute breakouts:

- IRP IT and Data Services: The Future
  This session will explore the next 10 years in terms of IRP membership needs for data and methods of accessing the data. Members are urged to bring their needs, related to IRP registration and fee data and associated tools and processes, for this interactive discussion.

- Electronic Records Working Group
A brief update on the working group’s activities followed by a facilitated discussion of concepts and possibilities.

Jeff Hood (IN) and Tim Adams (IRP, Inc.)

- Demonstration: Virtual Technology and Platform Scales
  Attendees will see demonstrations of both:
  - Virtual Technology: Attendees will get to visit and tour an enforcement van equipped with the latest virtual truck screening technology. Officers will also demonstrate how they can log into a virtual port located at an Arizona rest area to view a live session of the Commercial Truck Screening System from a laptop. The system uses an infrared detector, DOT number and plate readers which gives officers the ability to detect carriers who have a running overweight violation, safety issues or documentation problems. The technology picks up on the commercial vehicles in violation and instructs them by message boards to enter the rest area for a closer look; the trucks in compliance are allowed to continue travel down the interstate without interruption.
  - Platform Scales: See how commercial vehicles are scaled and what the weighing process involves. Enforcement officers will share their knowledge of size, weight and safety, which will include weight tolerances.

Representatives from the Arizona Department of Transportation Enforcement and Compliance Division will describe and demonstrate how they use these tools and answer attendees’ questions. Lieutenant Kathy Kontz, Sergeant Curtis Adams, Sergeant Joseph Brochu, Officer Kevin Giese, David Hawley, Officer Curtis Jones, Officer Casey Langford, and Officer Robbie Russ of the Arizona Department of Transportation Enforcement and Compliance Division

HVUT Electronic Verification Project

Palm ABDE

Jurisdictions are required to verify the filing of federal Heavy Vehicle Use Tax (HVUT) for vehicles exceeding 54,999 pounds prior to registration of the vehicle. This is normally accomplished by providing a paper copy of the IRS Stamped Schedule 1 (2290 form) to the jurisdiction. The state of Alabama, working with approved IRS service providers, has developed an internet web service to allow license plate issuing officials to verify the filing and payment of HVUT.
