Message From the President

Well, the winter is finally over at my house and springtime is in full bloom. As the warm weather spreads over the South, I really want to get outside and play golf and work in the yard. However, before I can play, I need to update you on the progress of plans for the meeting at The Homestead.

Before we know it, June will be here and it will be time for the Annual Meeting. The final plans are coming together nicely. Tony Pizzo has assembled an outstanding scientific program with great panels. On page 4 of this newsletter is a condensed version of the program which announces the panels. These will be timely presentations about procedures of interest to everyone. As usual, we have an excellent array of residents’ and members’ papers. I suspect that the judges for the Glancy Award will have a tough time deciding. As you can see, the educational opportunities available to everyone make our meetings a real value for your membership.

Since the meeting will be held at such an historic facility and area in the state of Virginia, we felt it appropriate to follow this theme in our keynote address. Dr. Dan Jordan is the president of The Jefferson Foundation which oversees Monticello and all of the Jefferson properties. Dr. Jordan will talk to us about the methods which Mr. Jefferson used for learning and how these methods can be used today. I think that this presentation should be of interest to spouses and older children and would invite all of them to attend on Sunday morning.

All in all, I think that this is going to be a great meeting and hope that everyone will join us at The Homestead to enjoy the cool mountain air. I have made an effort to attract eligible plastic surgeons practicing in the Southeast but not presently members of SES-PRS to attend this meeting. Some of you have given me names that fall into this category and letters of invitation have been sent. However, any member can invite guests to the meeting and I would encourage each of you to exercise this privilege.

My year of service as your President will soon draw to a close. I want each of you to know what an honor it has been to serve you and I thank you for this opportunity. This year will be completed by our annual get-together of friends and colleagues. I look forward to seeing all of you in Virginia.

William H. Wallace
SESPRS President

Please make note that our Annual Business Meeting will convene at 12:00 pm on Tuesday, June 8, 2004 upon the completion of our morning session. All Active and Life Members need to be present.
January’s Breast Symposium in Atlanta a Great Success

The 2004 SESPRS breast meeting, held at the Grand Hyatt Hotel in Buckhead (Atlanta) in January was, again, a huge success. In its twenty years of existence, this has become one of the best specialized meetings offered in the country. It consistently provides in depth coverage of current concepts of breast surgery, with live surgery demonstrations to provide examples of new techniques or twists of established ones. Candid commentary both of the live procedures this year as well as those from last year serve both to inform and provide perspective. A DVD of the live surgery demonstrations was provided to each registrant.

Everyone should have received registration materials for the annual meeting to be held June 5-9 at the Homestead. The scientific program, as outlined in the registration material, is designed to be applicable to the practices of the membership.

A good mix of course-type seminars on specific topics and original papers from the membership is the goal. Meeting attendance provides for 16.5 hours of CME credit toward the requirements of the ASPS and toward the AMA Physicians’ Recognition Award.

This is a beautiful area of the country, and should give ample opportunity for families to enjoy the afternoons provided by the meeting format. There will be the golf, tennis, and the fun run, as well as the local activities organized for the spouses and families. Arrangements have been made for a cooking demonstration by the Homestead Executive Chef himself. For the botanically minded, there will be a wildflower tour of Bath County, Virginia. A reminder for those with children—there will be a KidsClub (ages 3-12) available every day, with activities to make the time enjoyable for the younger ones. There also is a babysitting service through the Homestead for children under age three. It also should be remembered that the SESPRS asks that attendance of children at the dinner dance be limited to those 16 or older.

Once again, Karen Zupko will present a seminar related to practice management, and she again will be available for private consultations by appointment. This an excellent benefit of attendance at the SESPRS meeting and the appointments usually fill up quickly on a first come, first serve basis.

The Annual Business Meeting will be at noon on Tuesday, June 8. Be prepared to attend the 2005 meeting June 3-8, 2005 at the Atlantis Resort in the Bahamas.
